Where more than one group entity is involved in a recruitment process, each entity will access and use personal information only on a need-to-know basis for the recruitment purpose for which it was made available. Any internal allocation of responsibilities between entities does not limit your right to direct any privacy-related query or request to the contact details set out below.

6. Purposes and Legal Basis for Processing Personal Data

We use personal information for the following recruitment-related purposes:

- (a) to operate the careers website and recruitment platform, maintain security, support site functionality and improve the user experience;
- (b) to create and manage your candidate profile, receive and assess your application, communicate with you, arrange interviews or assessments, verify information where necessary and lawful, and decide whether to progress your application;
- (c) where you choose that option, to keep your profile visible for other current or future vacancies for the period stated in this notice; and

For South African applicants, the provision of personal information marked as mandatory, or otherwise reasonably required for the recruitment process, is voluntary in the sense that you may choose not to provide it, but if you do not provide it we may be unable to consider or progress your application, verify your suitability, comply with applicable legal requirements or make an offer.

Where the applicable law requires the basis for processing to be identified, the processing described above is carried out because it is reasonably necessary to consider and manage your application, to take steps at your request in relation to a possible employment relationship, to comply with legal obligations, to protect your or our legitimate interests where applicable, and, where required, with your consent .

The above purposes will be implemented, among others, within the framework of the following principles:

Surveys

As part of the recruitment process, we may use Qualtrics or a similar survey tool to gather feedback about the recruitment experience.

Participation is voluntary. Survey responses must not be used to make recruitment decisions. Where personal information is processed through the survey tool, it will be used only to understand and improve the recruitment experience, and access will be limited to authorised personnel .

Assessment of English Proficiency

Where English language proficiency is a requirement for a role, we may use ITEP or an equivalent assessment provider to assess the language skills relevant to the position. The information processed for that purpose may include registration details, contact information, assessment responses, assessment results, and technical information generated by the platform.

If microphone, camera, image or voice access is required for exam integrity or assessment purposes, that functionality must be clearly disclosed at the point of collection and must be limited to what is necessary and lawful for the assessment.

Assessment results and related records may be accessed on a need-to-know basis by authorised recruitment personnel involved in the relevant application.

Assessment of competencies, cognitive abilities and motivations

We may use Korn Ferry or an equivalent assessment provider to support the structured assessment of competencies, traits, drivers, cognitive ability or other role-related criteria. Assessment outputs are used as one input in the recruitment process and are reviewed together with interviews, qualifications, experience and other relevant information. They are not used in isolation to determine whether a candidate will proceed in the process.

The provider acts on our instructions in relation to platform hosting and support, and authorised recruitment personnel may access the results on a need-to-know basis for the relevant recruitment process.

7. Automated decision-making

We may use technology-enabled assessment tools to support the recruitment process. No candidate is appointed, rejected or otherwise subjected to a decision based solely on automated processing. All material recruitment decisions are taken with human involvement.

8. Who will have access to your data?

Depending on the Job Application Process you choose, we will access your Personal Data on a need-to-know basis.
